What background do you have to teach this course? Does the standards fall within your credential? Are these topics a hobby? Please explain. *

I have a degree in Advertising and have taught Yearbook for over 15 years. My background combines professional training in graphic design principles, instructional best practices, and collaborative project management. This enables me to effectively guide students through the complex process of publishing a real-world product

The CTC requires the District to prove you are qualified to teach this course. Please explain how * you qualified to teach this course.

I'm qualified to teach Yearbook under my California Multiple Subject Teaching Credential. While this credential focuses on elementary and middle school grades, California Ed Code allows districts to approve teachers for specific elective classes like this one. My credential shows I've passed all state requirements, completed an approved teacher training program, and have the foundational skills needed to teach the writing, communication, and project management involved in making a yearbook.

I agree I would like the Local Committee on Assignments to review this course information and * recommend an approval to the School Board so students may take this course. Please type your name as your signature.
